

Timothy M. Gaffney, LEED® Green Associate

Tim is Project Manager/Lead Mechanical Engineer for many of Altieri's key museum projects. He joined Altieri in 1999 and continually demonstrates his talent for solving complex engineering challenges and maintaining internal production schedules. He is the main point of client contact and is responsible for the execution of design principles established by the Principal in Charge.

Tim was responsible for construction administration and on-site team coordination at the Museum of Modern Art, providing weekly on-site reviews of construction progress and quality. Currently, he is overseeing Altieri's master plan development for Carnegie Hall and is Project Manager for the renovation/expansion of the Santa Barbara Museum of Art.
